Dear Chicago State University Students, Faculty, and Staff:

Governor JB Pritzker announced yesterday afternoon an extended stay-at-home order for all residents of the State, effective through April 30, 2020. The Governor indicated in his address that he made this the difficult decision to help slow the spread of COVID-19 and therefore protect Illinois families, including the CSU campus community.

During this period, Chicago State University will remain open to facilitate remote instruction (E-Learning) for the remainder of Spring 2020 semester and to perform essential academic and business functions. Student support and enrollment-related services will continue to be available remotely.

The health and safety of our campus community continues to be our top priority, as we adjust operations in accordance with this guidance and further guidance from the Illinois and Chicago Departments of Public Health, along with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. We will continue to provide regular updates through the CSU COVID-19 page, which also houses important resources for students, faculty, and staff.

Through these challenging times, our students must Keep Learning and our faculty committed to Keep Teaching. As a university, we remain focused on our mission and dedicated to our values of academic excellence and responsibility.

I am moved by all of the ways that we have come together during this unprecedented moment, and I thank you all.

Please stay connected, stay informed, and be well.

Sincerely,

Zaldwaynaka Scott, Esq.
